DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-27 and 32, drawn to methods for metallizing one or more sites of a nucleic acid molecule and for detecting a target nucleic acid molecule, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
  - II. Claims 28-31, drawn to methods of attaching nucleic acid molecules to electrically conductive surfaces, classified in class 435, subclass 287.9.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:
3. Inventions I and II are directed to related methods of nucleic acid detection and nucleic acid attachment to a surface. The related inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, the invention of group I does not overlap in scope with the invention of group II since the methods of group I involve detection of a nucleic acid target molecule by measuring electrical current carried between probes attached to an electrode, while the methods of group II involve methods to attach probes to electrically conductive surfaces. These inventions are not obvious variants of each other, but rather distinct processes for the different end points of detection of target molecules and attachment of probes. The inventions have different modes of operation, function and effect. Invention I is a diagnostic method of detection of a target molecule, while Invention II is a method of making a device for use in Invention I and requires chemical attachment steps that are not required for Invention I. Invention I requires measurement of hybridization of nucleic acids to each other by electrical means that is not required for Invention II.

4. Searching the inventions of Invention I and II together would impose serious search burden. The inventions of groups I and II have a separate status in the art as shown by their different classifications. Moreover, in the instant case, the search for methods for metallizing one or more sites of a nucleic acid molecule and for detecting a target nucleic acid molecule and methods of attaching nucleic acid molecules to electrically conductive surfaces are not coextensive.

5. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

6. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

7. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to David C. Thomas whose telephone number is 571-272-3320. The examiner can normally be reached on 5 days, 9-5:30.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Gary Benzion can be reached on 571-272-0782. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 571-273-8300.
